The B2B Marketing Benchmark

A global look at the state of B2B marketing

June 2023
B2B continues its ascent

B2B is undergoing a renaissance as business models, innovation drivers and buyers evolve dramatically from decades prior. Now some of the most profitable companies across the globe are B2B companies.

And while many in the business community cite serious concerns over economic turmoil and rising global uncertainty, B2B leaders are largely optimistic about the fate of their organizations and the role of marketing in helping them grow.

The B2B Marketing Benchmark uncovers the trends and practices fueling this optimism: Marketing budgets on the rise worldwide; Excitement among B2B leaders about emerging technologies like Generative AI; Growth in adoption of creative and technical skills that will help marketers meet the demands of these emerging technologies and trends.

What follows is a meticulously researched perspective on how B2B organizations can lead (and succeed) through uncertainty. We reveal key areas of opportunity, what B2B leaders need to do to thrive in a rapidly changing environment and how they should plan for the long term.
To understand the evolving landscape and opportunity in B2B, we surveyed B2B leaders in eight countries. These countries represent core B2B growth markets with a vibrant LinkedIn member base.
Our perspective is backed by data from Ipsos and LinkedIn

Primary quantitative research was conducted by Ipsos via a device-agnostic online survey, designed with each market in mind. LinkedIn internal data provided critical context and understanding to Ipsos’ quantitative findings.

Research Methodology
Ipsos recruited a sample of 1,954 B2B Leaders from various industries.
Participants took a 15-minute device agnostic survey on mobile or desktop.
Survey development drew from existing Ipsos expertise as well as findings from LinkedIn research. The focus of the survey was challenges being faced by senior-level B2B marketers globally. The large sample size allows for confident projection of results and analysis of subgroups of the target audience.
We also did an analysis of 1,000 B2B Brands to understand how B2B companies are faring in this environment. We used our B2B Index, a new LinkedIn metric that measures effective brand building, to identify the 1,000 B2B companies we could analyze in aggregate to determine B2B trends on LinkedIn.

Overview

We look at several factors driving B2B organizations today – the budgets they’re working with, the outlook they have for the future, the organizational structures they’re building and the strategies they’re using to drive growth.

1. B2B Budgets & Outlook

2. The B2B Marketing Organization
   - Evolution of the CMO
   - Key B2B Marketing Skills
   - Diversity, Equity & Inclusion

   - Building & Measuring Brand
   - Marketing Channels & Tools
   - Generative AI
Key Findings

In helping their companies flourish in such a difficult environment, B2B marketing leaders face a tough road ahead. But they are resilient and up to the challenge. During the past few years, B2B marketing leaders have found new ways to drive influence, impact and growth across their organizations.

1. Global B2B leaders are hopeful about the future.
Around half of B2B leaders say they are optimistic they will be able to drive revenue in the coming year. This optimism may be fueled by increasing budgets.

2. B2B marketing budgets are up, a finding that’s largely consistent worldwide.
While some minimal differences exist, B2B leaders across regions expect budgets and spending to increase in the coming years.

3. B2B leaders are using creative skills to succeed.
Creative strategy and problem solving are among the top skills B2B marketing leaders identify as important for their current role and are skills they identified as strengths. Marketing leaders report these skills will continue to be needed in the future to succeed.

4. The role of the CMO is evolving and expanding.
Roughly 2 in 3 C-suite members say the role of the CMO has increased in importance over the past two years, while around half say CMOs have a more direct role in driving revenue and growth now.

5. CMOs are building relationships across the C-suite.
8 in 10 CMOs say they try to involve other members of the C-suite in B2B marketing decisions.
Key Findings

In helping their companies flourish in such a difficult environment, B2B marketing leaders face a tough road ahead. But they are resilient and up to the challenge. During the past few years, B2B marketing leaders have found new ways to drive influence, impact and growth across their organizations.

Increasingly, B2B organizations are recognizing the importance of brand.

Globally, roughly 6 in 10 B2B marketing leaders say their C-suite has increased the importance of brand building given economic conditions. Additionally, B2B marketing leaders are reporting increased spending on growing brand awareness.

B2B leaders are focused on a full funnel approach.

While B2B leaders cite lead generation and generating new business as top areas of budget allocation and spending, they also plan to prioritize branding and demand generation.

B2B marketing leaders are focused on making connections.

6 in 10 B2B marketing leaders say they plan to use in-person events, and a majority say their use of in-person events is going to increase in the next year. In-person events were also cited as the most effective B2B marketing channel.

Eagerness outruns know how about generative AI.

3 in 4 B2B marketing leaders say they plan to start or continue using generative AI. However, less than 2 in 10 report they have an extremely good understanding of how to use AI.

B2B leaders recognize the importance of equity, but sometimes struggle to action it.

Over 8 in 10 B2B leaders say DEI is important to their company. However, just 6 in 10 report that their company has an official capacity that focuses on DEI.
B2B Budgets & Outlook

See how B2B organizations are spending their marketing budgets. How optimistic are they about the year ahead?
Budgets are up worldwide and B2B leaders are feeling optimistic about their ability to drive revenue for their companies.
Despite the uncertain economic environment, current and future B2B budgets are increasing.

As perceptions of the U.S. economy decline, concerns over inflation persist. More than half of small business owners continue to cite it as their top concern.¹

However, B2B leaders are hopeful about the future, even in these uncertain times.

The Top Trends Shaping Global B2B Budgets

- Overall, 6 in 10 say budgets have increased in the past year.²
- Over 2 in 3 say budgets will increase in the next year.³
- The tech sector is a notable outlier, with respondents from this industry saying budgets have decreased (26%), the most compared to all other sectors.
- The APAC region was more likely to say budgets have increased somewhat or substantially in the past year compared to all other regions (71% APAC, 60% N. AMER, 57% LATAM, 53% EMEA)² and was more likely to say budgets will increase somewhat or substantially in the next year compared to all other regions (74% APAC, 66% N. AMER, 65% LATAM, 64% EMEA).³

B2B leaders are allocating their increasing budgets across the funnel.

How to allocate budget and spending across branding, lead generation and demand generation, especially during times of economic uncertainty, is a core issue for most B2B marketing leaders.

In the absence of a silver bullet strategy, data suggests B2B marketing leaders are allocating budget with a focus on the full prospect funnel.

“It is well documented that keeping brand and demand spends high during a slowdown helps brands bounce quicker when the market comes back. However, what is not clear is the delineation of marketing budgets towards customers vs. net new leads.”

Ricky Abbott
President, Transmission

Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.
“Most of your growth potential lies in reaching people who won’t buy from you today, but who will buy from you in the future.”

Ty Heath

“There is no [failsafe] for weathering an economic downturn in demand generation. Rather, teams need to work to optimize everything – often in small ways.”

Senior Manager, Tech, U.S.

The Top Trends Shaping Global B2B Budget Allocation and Spend

B2B leaders are looking at the full funnel in their prospecting efforts to ensure success.

- Although Lead Generation (36%) receives the highest share of B2B budget allocation, B2B leaders are also allocating budget to Brand Building (30%) and Demand Generation (20%).

- Overall, 7 in 10 B2B leaders say their budget is focused on generating new business.

  - Tech sector (85%) more likely than Agencies (72%), Financial Services (70%), Professional Services (68%), Health (67%) or Education (59%) to allocate budget to generating new business.
B2B leaders plan to invest higher proportions of their marketing budgets in lead generation and brand building.

The B2B Marketing Organization

The skills, practices, relationships and tools that B2B marketing organizations need to excel.

- Evolution of the CMO
- Key B2B Marketing Skills
- Diversity, Equity & Inclusion
Globally, B2B CMOs played a pivotal role in driving business growth, resilience and agility during and after the pandemic, and as a result, have seen their influence grow in the C-suite. The prominence of the marketing organizations they lead are also growing. To meet the opportunity ahead, B2B marketing leaders and their teams must merge art and science to continue to excel.
“Marketing’s focus and knowledge of the customer drives far-reaching influence—we are often the data champion of an organization and own the customer journey. We are at the epicenter, connecting teams and processes to form a single view of the customer, and using tools like AI + Data + CRM drive differentiated customer experiences and new revenue streams.”

Paul Stoddart
CMO, Customer & Partner Success, Salesforce
The CMO has increased in importance in the eyes of members in the C-suite, leading to evolving role changes, most notably in impact to the bottom line. Roughly 2 in 3 CMOs/CFOs say the importance of the CMO has increased in the eyes of the C-suite.

B2B leaders are looking to sharpen their teams’ skills to create more efficient and agile marketing groups.

To do so, B2B marketing organizations must focus on upskilling their workforces on both technical skills, like MarTech expertise, and soft skills, like creative strategy and problem-solving.
“New growth inherently involves building internal capacity.

With increase in business, we will need to hire the talent to execute on the new business and create (increase) marketing budget.”

CSUITEOE: What is the one thing you would like your (top client’s) C-suite to know about what your team brings to the table?
Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.
“The surge in job postings among B2B companies, in contrast to their B2C counterparts, during a time when the economy is slowing down can be attributed to their heightened confidence in growth potential. B2B companies often have more stable customer bases and longer-term contracts, making them more resilient in downturns. Consequently, marketing professionals with expertise in B2B strategies, lead generation, and relationship management may witness increased demand for their skills, as B2B companies continue to invest in marketing talent to fortify their market position and seize growth opportunities amid the impending downturn. This underscores the importance of adapting to the evolving business landscape and aligning marketing careers with the sectors that exhibit resilience and growth potential.”

Rand Ghayad, Ph.D.
Head of Economics and Global Labor Markets, LinkedIn
In a rapidly evolving technological landscape, technical skills are highly coveted.

Over 1 in 2 B2B marketing leaders say marketing technology mastery is the most important skill for their team members in the next two years.

“We’re modernizing their whole digital marketing approach, modernizing with cookie-less solutions and bringing them into the digital landscape. A better tech stack equals a better share of revenue coming into their business.”

Senior Manager, Health, UK
“B2B Marketing establishes critical engagement and relationship management with those responsible for selling our companies products. Without the creativity and engineering done by the marketing team, sales goals would not be reached. As such, onboarding new and innovative marketing technology and solutions is an essential component of the team and organization’s success.”

Director, Financial Services, U.S.
But skills like innovative thinking and creative strategy are also of great importance.

Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.
“Advances in technology, especially Generative AI, require that marketing professionals understand how to best apply innovation to understand more complex problems, unlock new opportunities, and meaningfully connect with more customers. But winning the future is rooted in compelling storytelling. Human interpretation, perspective, and refinement complemented by the speed and scale that technological advances will provide is what will differentiate marketing mediocrity from marketing excellence.”

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion (DEI)

The continued prioritization of DEI in marketing organizations will enable better and more informed decision-making. Additionally, factoring DEI into marketing content and advertising campaigns will also help B2B organizations connect with a larger audience.
“Any organization that responds to outside pressures and trends to get started on DEI initiatives will lose momentum if they’re not fully integrated into their core values and business strategies.

Within my Community-Led Growth team, we embed DEI into our team culture, marketing strategies and customer experiences.”

Laurie Aquilante (she/her)
VP of Community-Led Growth, HubSpot
B2B leaders understand the value of DEI efforts.

Over 8 in 10 (85%) agree DEI is important to their company.

- Respondents in APAC (90%) are more likely than respondents in all other regions to say DEI is important to their company (NA 81%, EMEA 84%, LATAM 83%).

Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.

Base size: Total (n=1,954), APAC (n=500), NA (n=350), EMEA (n=904), LATAM (n=200)

DEIIMPORT: How important is diversity, equity, and inclusion to each of the following?

T2B - Very important/Somewhat important
But action to adopt official DEI programs paces behind interest levels.

Roughly 6 in 10 B2B leaders say their company has an official capacity that focuses on DEI.

“We’re seeing some hesitation to commit to DEI initiatives, and this is partly due to the challenge of aligning DEI with corporate goals,” says Chris Bagnall, CEO & Founder at Transmission. “It’s this failure to align DEI with corporate goals that has, in part, led to it fading into the background, relegated to little more than a token role for recruitment teams. The impact of DEI programs is naturally slower burn, but fatigue at organizational and individual level can be overcome by taking a strategic approach – by considering both the resources required to achieve impact and structured, regular measurement of progress – and appointing diversity champions who act as catalysts for change, keeping the business accountable.”

DEICAPACITY: Does your company have an official capacity that focuses on diversity, equity, and inclusion? This could include a DEI team, official DEI policies, special committees, or dedicated events.

Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.
And a majority believe companies need to strive for equity in an increasingly diverse workforce and to attract top talent.

Why is DEI Important

- Companies need to strive for equity in an increasingly diverse workforce: 58%
- Provides more perspectives for better decision-making: 58%
- Helps us attract talent: 56%
- Improves our brand/reputation: 53%
- Helps us retain talent: 51%
- Improves the quality of our work/products: 51%
- Makes us more attractive to clients/prospective clients: 10%
- Other (please specify): 1%

Why is DEI Not Important

- Companies only appear to emphasize DEI for appearances: 38%
- Just not something I know or think very much about: 35%
- There are no tangible benefits to my company: 28%
- It is not important to management: 23%
- Impacts hiring/promotions too much: 22%
- Too difficult to implement effective DEI policies: 19%
- Doesn’t matter to clients/prospective clients: 7%
- Other (please specify): 6%

Among those that find DEI unimportant, the top reason is that DEI is used only for appearances by some companies.
Efforts focused on ensuring inclusivity and accessibility lead current DEI efforts in B2B marketing content.

How does the marketing organization measure the impact of DEI efforts?

- Track number of diverse employees across organization (52%).
- Track number of diverse leaders across organization (46%).
- Track participation in DEI training sessions/programs (44%).

Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.
What’s at stake?
Brand trust.

According to Ipsos research, nearly all Americans want to see significant change in the world when it comes to sustainability and equity. And American consumers would like to see brands representing this change. As a result, it is critical that brands build trust in these areas.

Over half (54%) of consumers expect brands to take a stand on equality issues, particularly among young (18–34, 65%), Hispanic (64%) and Black (62%) consumers.

B2B Marketing Strategies

The most important avenues for reaching B2B customers and prospects.

- Building & Measuring Brand
- Marketing Tools & Channels
- Generative AI
As the pandemic accelerated B2B buyers’ shift toward digital, connecting with buyers via content and event marketing has become more important than ever.

And even though B2B marketers are realizing that emerging technologies, such as generative AI, will help them to deliver more impactful, personalized campaigns in the near future, much of the marketing potential of AI continues to go unrecognized.
B2B leaders see value in building brand and view brand-building efforts as a creative way to generate revenue.
“The best revenue generating campaigns are also those that are the most unconventional. When we’ve run some tests that could have been seen as ‘risky’, the performance was usually better than for conventional campaigns.”

Director, UK

Over 6 in 10 B2B marketing leaders say their companies have increased spending on growing brand awareness.

- Globally, 59% of B2B marketing leaders say their C-suite has increased the importance of brand building given economic conditions.
- A significantly higher percentage of CFOs believe their company has the right creative skills on their marketing team to support brand building efforts, compared to CMOs (79% vs 68%).

BRANDIMPORT: When thinking about your brand building efforts, please indicate how much you agree/disagree with the following statements.

Research conducted by Ipsos, March 2023 to May 2023.
“In addition to driving short term goals, the marketing team is increasing value long term through brand reputation, distinctiveness and relevance for our core audiences.”

CMO, Tech, UK
“My team and I are consistently working on a thorough marketing plan that works with the company in a more creative and effective approach.”

CFO, Australia

B2B marketing leaders also understand the importance of branding, and their leaders are confident in their teams’ ability to deliver.

- Increased spending on growing brand awareness in the past year: 63%
- Marketing team can effectively measure the effectiveness of our brand-building efforts: 60%
- Our C-Suite has increased the importance of brand building given economic conditions: 59%

Over 7 in 10 say their team understands importance of brand building and they have the right creative skills to support brand building.
But despite B2B marketing organizations’ broad support and understanding of brand building efforts, B2B marketing campaigns still favor product promotion over brand building.

What role can generative AI play in shaping the future of B2B marketing?

B2B marketing leaders are beginning to realize that emerging technologies, such as generative AI, will help them to deliver more impactful, personalized campaigns. But much of the marketing potential of AI continues to go unrecognized.
LinkedIn has seen a significant growth in “AI”-related posts indicating a growing interest among B2B marketers on the platform.

While AI is here to stay, with an estimated value of $2 Trillion USD by 2023, there are real concerns about ethical and safe usage of the technology.

A majority of Americans are worried about:

- Privacy concerns (72%) and being able to reach a human when needed (72%).
- An inability to discern what is AI or produced by humans (71%) and that more misinformation will be spread online (70%).
- Discrimination or bias from AI tools (57%) or even harm caused by AI tools (65%).
- Difficult-to-understand outputs (60%) and opaque algorithms (59%).

TEAMSKILLIMPORT: In your opinion, which of the following skills are most important members of your team who report to you?
To most of us, it’s the big consumer brands that are the household names; the iconic advertising campaigns they’ve created have made sure that we know exactly who they are. (Just Do It, anyone?)

However, an analysis by Brand Finance shows that the top 100 global B2B brands account for $2 trillion in total brand value. Yet almost $1 trillion of business value remains untapped by B2B brands, who lag B2C brands in terms of brand contribution to business value.

If the pandemic proved anything, it’s that B2B marketers are resilient and are finding new ways to drive influence, impact and growth across their organizations. Emerging technologies such as Generative AI make it more important than ever for B2B marketers to be able to merge art and science to develop bold and dynamic campaigns. The time is now – and our results show that B2B marketers are up to the task.
