Percolate generates quality leads and benchmark-beating clickthroughs using LinkedIn Sponsored Content

“LinkedIn is one of our most valuable channels for qualified leads. We can access the broadest possible community of professionals, and target them with precision—something we can’t do on other social platforms.”

Chris Bolman
Director of Growth
Percolate

Reaching different audiences with relevant content

As a central operating system for managing marketing and advertising, Percolate’s software is used by a wide swath of professionals—everyone from marketing and digital professionals to legal, PR teams, and agencies. That adds complexity to Percolate’s sales cycle, says Chris Bolman, Percolate’s director of growth. “There are many stakeholders in every client relationship, and we have to tailor messaging to multiple buyer types,” Bolman says. “They all benefit in different ways from our capabilities. Ideally we’d like to personalize messaging and content to all of these different buyer types, whether they’re mid-level, senior decision-makers, or on the IT side.”

Challenge

- Tailor messages to different audiences
- Drive engagement with thought leadership
- Attract quality leads

Solution

- Sponsored Content

Testing and refining content to maximize results

"Content is an important aspect of our marketing—we blog, offer webinars, and develop original research," Bolman says. "Sponsored Content was a natural fit." Not only can Percolate's marketers share resources that educate and inform prospective customers, they can carefully target the updates to reach precise audiences with personalized creative from Percolate. For example, a report on "Defining the Modern CMO" won clear interest from marketing executives, while a report on "The 50 Most Important Marketing Charts of 2014" had broad appeal across Percolate's target audiences.

"LinkedIn gives us the broadest and deepest inventory of professional prospects, and then we can target the audiences we need with very narrow precision," Bolman says. "These are not capabilities we can find on other social platforms."

By testing and refining content over time, Percolate steadily improves engagement to reach more of its target audience over the course of a campaign. "We learn from every piece of creative we develop," Bolman says. "We gain intelligence about our prospects that we're able to feed back into the campaign and our editorial process to improve our future results."

For example, Percolate used Sponsored Content to promote a report called "The Marketing Clock - Percolate's Framework for Effective Marketing." When it didn't drive as much engagement as expected, the Percolate team rebranded the report with the title, "How to Design a Marketing Workflow That Wins Customers." Says Bolman, "The second time we posted it and changed the creative, we got thousands of downloads and increased lead generation on the report by 500 percent."

Generating quality leads and better engagement

LinkedIn is now Percolate's top generator of leads from downloaded content. The Sponsored Content campaign showed an average clickthrough rate 91 percent above LinkedIn benchmarks, along with an average engagement rate more than 30 percent above LinkedIn benchmarks. In addition, Percolate tripled the number of its LinkedIn Company Page followers.

"LinkedIn has played a big part in our ability to bring in leads," Bolman says. "It's a very valuable channel for us."
