The Engagement Imperative
Better Data Comes Down to Better Experiences

ON24 drives bottom-line results with strategic, full-funnel approach using LinkedIn Ads

The challenge: How to grow bottom line results in a crowded software space

The demand for digital experiences like interactive webinars and virtual events that help people connect and collaborate on a more human level has never been greater—and neither has the competition among providers.

But how do you get the market to have affinity for your company specifically? How do you stand out as a category leader? And how do you capture your audiences’ attention and get more people coming to you ready to buy? Those were some of the challenges preoccupying webinar software, virtual events, and digital experiences platform, ON24.

The Solution: A multi-format, full-funnel approach

To help overcome these challenges, ON24 has expanded its LinkedIn strategy, using a variety of content and ad formats to support a full-funnel, test and learn approach.

Video content and landing page campaigns are used top of funnel to introduce the brand and build affinity with the ON24 offering.

High value, educational content including eBooks, guides and webinars are used mid-funnel to support marketers, stimulate engagement, and underscore ON24’s position as an authority in the world of digital marketing. Lead Gen Forms are used at the bottom of the funnel to remove friction in the final conversion stage.

Leveraging a range of formats throughout the process, from video ads to interactive Conversation Ads and Lead Gen Forms helps to attract and retain the attention of the target audience and grow retargeting pools.

With Conversation Ads, ON24 can engage with its audience in a more natural and personal way, allowing people to choose from multiple CTAs based on where they are in the customer journey. This approach is driving high levels of engagement at a significantly lower cost per click than other formats.

The strategy we have taken with our LinkedIn advertising has allowed us to reach a relevant, engaged audience and offer them the right content at the right time in their preferred format. I see the real power of the platform in the targeting, though. I am excited to continually test new tactics and refine our campaign targeting to ensure we maintain a consistent flow of high-quality leads to our Sales team.
