SPEAKER

Margaret Burke

Principal, Firmwide Talent Acquisition & Development Leader, PwC

We're reestablishing apprenticeship, empowering skills-first development, and integrating AI with human skills—making the learning of critical skills a part of the way we work every day.

Straight from the Speaker:

"The skills you bring to the table aren't fixed; they grow through teaching and learning every day. Especially now, in the age of AI, organizations must embed the continuous learning of essential new skills into daily workflows—speeding up their readiness to adapt and evolve."

Key Takeaways:

- Apprenticeship accelerates growth.
- Skills-first strategy is essential.
- Human and AI skills developed together.

Practical Tips & Actions:

- Embed an apprenticeship mindset that fosters continuous skill development on the job.
- From planning to development, prioritize the right skills to the right work.
- To lead in the AI era, developing both human skills and AI capabilities is critical.
