Advice From Candidates

What you should share
about your company

- “Give a real picture of the company’s working environment, not the usual made-in-heaven company profile.”
- “I would like to hear the positive and negatives from real professional staff members – not the marketing gloss from the CEO or marketing office. Real people. Real jobs.”
- “Share what makes the company different from its competitors and why a potential candidate should apply for the position.”
- “Information about the strategy/vision and ambitions of the company – not just the headlines, but HOW they will achieve their ambitions/vision.”
- “Be honest – What’s your turnover rate? Why is this position available (expansions or firing/quitting)? Why did the person in this position leave?”
